Kinship Children who are “Homeless”

The federal McKinney Vento law requires that children who are homeless can attend the school where they last resided, or enroll in another school tuition free. Each school has a homeless liaison who can help with determining if a kinship child qualifies.

The definition of homelessness includes many children who are in kinship care.

From National Center for Homeless Education - Determining Eligibility for Rights and Services Under McKinney-Vento Act:

“Sharing the housing of other persons...” implies that the student or family is staying in another person’s home. Some pertinent questions to help determine if this is the case would include:
- Does the student have a legal right to be in that home?
- Can the student or family be asked to leave at any time with no legal recourse?
- Is the living situation intended to be temporary or long term?
- Did the student or family move into the home as an urgent measure to avoid being on the street or in another precarious situation?

“...due to loss of housing...” implies that the student or family has no personal housing available. Did the student or family lose their previous housing due to:
- An eviction or an inability to pay the rent or other bills?
- Destruction of or damage to the previous home?
- Abuse or neglect (such as in the case of a youth who leaves or is asked to leave the home)?
- Unhealthy conditions, such as an inadequate physical environment, infestations, drug or alcohol abuse in the home, or domestic violence?
- Absence of a parent or guardian due to abandonment, the parent’s or guardian’s incarceration, or another reason?

“...economic hardship ...” includes cases where limited financial resources have forced families or youth to leave personal residences and share housing due to an inability to pay rent and other bills. The way that the shared housing came about and the intention of the residents are significant.

If economic hardship such as an accident or illness, loss of employment, loss of public benefits, or condition of poverty forces a family or youth to share the housing of others temporarily, the children and youth are eligible for McKinney-Vento services.

From San Francisco Unified School District FAQs:

4. Are families who move in with relatives or friends covered by the Act?
A: In many circumstances, yes. Children and youth who are sharing the housing of others due to loss of housing, economic hardship, or a similar reason are covered by the McKinney-Vento Act.
42 U.S.C. §11434A(2)(B)(i). Families who share adequate housing due to cultural preferences or convenience would not be covered by the Act. Also, families who are sharing housing on a permanent basis are unlikely to be covered by the Act.

Can a district refuse to enroll undocumented immigrants who have no proof of guardianship? A: No, not if they are covered by the McKinney-Vento Act. Undocumented students have the same right to public education as U.S. citizens. Plyer v. Doe, 457 U.S. 202 (1982). Therefore, the McKinney-Vento Act applies to them in the same way it would apply to any student: if the student meets the definition of homeless, he or she must be enrolled in school immediately, even if lacking proof of guardianship. The McKinney-Vento Act does not apply to immigrant students who live in a fixed, regular and adequate residence.

More from NYS TEACHES:

What is a "doubled-up" living situation?

Oftentimes, students live in temporary housing situations with relatives, friends, or other individuals because of a loss of housing or economic hardship. Unaccompanied youth (students who are not in the physical custody of a parent or legal guardian) often find themselves living in doubled-up situations. These students should be designated as homeless under the McKinney-Vento Act.

This is the 2016 Non-Regulatory Guidance, Question A-2, that addresses the revision:

1. A-2. Are children who are awaiting foster care placement still eligible for services under the McKinney-Vento Act?
   The McKinney-Vento Act no longer includes children and youths who are awaiting foster care placement in the definition of “homeless children and youths.” For all non-“covered” States, this change is effective on December 10, 2016. This means that after the effective date, children who are awaiting foster care placement will no longer be considered homeless and will therefore not be eligible for McKinney-Vento services unless they meet the revised definition of “homeless children and youths.”
   The Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA), as amended by the ESSA, includes new provisions for ensuring the educational stability of children in foster care under Title I, Part A. Joint U.S. Department of Education and Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) guidance on those provisions can be found here.
